“ There's a passage in Colossians (1:17), that our youth director, Joe Castillo, introduced me to at Lauderdale Manors Baptist Church years ago, that is core to my understanding of God. It speaks of Christ being the 'atomic glue' that holds all things together.

Having worked with a lot of church secretaries over the years, no one held things together better than Dodie Carter. Given the dynamic preachers and personalities that she's been around, she quietly, skillfully and confidently made it all come together for God's glory.

While seldom in the limelight, Dodie helped make sure the the essential stuff was covered and executed appropriately. Whether it was making sure we had what we needed to make tunnels from appliance boxes for a Halloween youth lock-in, to crowns for the king & queen event, or silk screened binders for a church wide Bible study, it was always there, I suspect thanks to her efforts. And this was well before the internet and Amazon could deliver overnight.

Grace permeated the Carter household, whether it was Henry helping my Dad, watching the moon landing at Jimmy & Tangy's, Carol & Jim stepping up to work with the youth, Sandy growing up with my sister Cindy or Dodie being Dodie, it was a blessing that I have continued to appreciate all my life.

My blessings and condolences to the Carter family and friends. Our family was blessed to have shared your presence.
