“ Mr Mac was the name I knew him by. He was my neighbor next door throughout my childhood. He rode his bike and smoked his pipe or cigar. He was always on the go. After I was grown and gone whenever I came back he was still there. I moved back to my childhood home and Mr Mac became a dear neighbor. He would bring mail over to us if it didn't have his name on it. He would come and follow my husband around the yard as we did our yard work. My husband would cut his grass almost every time he cut ours. Mac would come and pay him every time. My youngest daughter heard it was his birthday a few years back and we made a cake for him. He was happy. Always said Hi and waved. If he was sick or had an accident he would tell my husband and tell him to be sure to tell his wife (me). He was a very special man. He often said he wanted to go to heaven and see his momma and daddy. He's there now. It was great knowing you Mr Mac. See you later my friend.

“ My friend and neighbor, Mr. Mac. I grew up watching him ride his big bike. One of a kind and kind being a key word here. I'm happy to say Mac was my friend and I know he is with his Mom and Dad as well as Mr. Willy. And you know it is what he would always say if he agreed with what you were saying. Take you rest my friend and save me a seat.
